

What HR needs to Know about OSHA & Safety

Whether your Company has a dedicated safety team or not, HR needs to be involved with safety and health matters. The presenter will highlight some of these issues and the importance of including HR in matters such as OSHA inspections, safety and health retaliation claims, workplace violence and mental health, emergency preparedness and general obligations under OSHA. In addition, he will discuss likely changes at OSHA under the current administration and provide an update on significant rulemaking including the proposed heat stress rule.
